Magazine

Rickie Lee Jones

Homeboys calling from the corners
Station to station for the magazine
But her pages are turning out the lights in the windows
And all that you're reading is the braille nightI can't come out and play Paddy with
The Precinct boys no more but you and me baby
We'll be lovers again but she's walking to the A
Walking to the B walking to the C now
Where are you going? I'm just going with himHe could be anywhere, I don't know where he is
I know he's coming, I know he's coming to me
It could be any day, I will know right away
I'll know he's coming, I'll know he's coming to me
I'll know he's coming, I'll know he's coming to me nowI don't think you know what you're doing
I don't think you know that she'll make him cry
Make my baby cry 'cuz you'll break my heart
Carol, carol, carolThere's a flagboy calling danger
Watch you're back now hey you
Flagboy, let 'em come, let 'em come
'Cuz I can see them there
I can see them coming, I can see it all now
Hey you, flagboy let 'em comeThey don't know where I am, I could be anywhere
I know they're coming, I know they're coming to me
It could be any day, I will know right away
I know they're coming I know they're coming to me
I know they're comingEverything's coming, everything's coming to me
Everything's coming alive
