300 Motion Pictures

Roses Are Red

So honestly
The way your body tells the story
Of the summer nights you spent away from meAnd honestly
There is no other place that I'd rather beSo sound the alarms
It's going to take more than a miracle to save me from your charms
So sound the alarms
It's going to take more than a miracleAnd every smile that you fake could be your last
Spend another night here living in the past
And every smile that you fake could be your last
Spend another night at homeWhen suddenly
I'm seeing clearly in the places
That you always kept from meAnd every smile that you fake could be your last
Spend another night here living in the past
And every smile that you fake could be your last
Spend another night at homeAnd suddenly
There is no other place I'd rather be
And suddenly
There is no other place I'd rather beAnd suddenly
There is no other place I'd rather be
And suddenly
There is no other place I'd rather beAnd every smile that you fake could be your last
Spend another night here living in the past
And every smile that you fake could be your last
Spend another night here living in the pastAnd every smile that you fake could be your last Spend another night at home

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/