Unaware

The Midway State

Unaware we would fall
Been a week since you called
I went to your house
They said you were outI pushed my way inside
My heart froze as I saw the pieces of your clothes
Lying on the floor by your bedroom door
I saw you try to hideBut the moment I saw your face
My body drowned
And my heart floated away
Felt my body sinking downI was unaware and unprepared
For what I walked in on, baby
I was unaware and unprepared
I was unaware that you were lost
And that you held it all from me
I was unaware and unpreparedRemember when I would steal you
Away in the night
You know in my car how we drove so far
Forgot about the timeAnd I kissed your sweet lips
And we lay so helpless to the love we found
I was on steady ground
When you were by my sideI couldn't say a thing
I thought you were my everything
