When Will I

Monte Montgomery

When will I?
When will I?
When will I?
When will I look back and laugh?
When will I?
When will I?
When will I look back at life,
When will I look back and laugh?Yesterday, when my love was far away
In the arms of another man, oh
Don't you know it made my heart beat slow?
In the past, I had a love made my heart beat fast
She made me feel good, good, good
She left me right where I stoodWhen will I?
When will I?
When will I?
When will I look back and laugh?
When will I?
When will I?
When will I look back at life,
When will I look back and laugh?Once upon a time when my heart was strong
I was younger and I didn't much care
I said no one could hurt me there
Now that I've been broken in four or five
I decided I was wrong, wrong, wrong
Hope I didn't wait too longWhen will I?
When will I?
When will I?
When will I look back and laugh?
When will I?
When will I?
When will I look back at life,
When will I look back and laugh?A long time ago
I left a woman 'cause she couldn't let go
I was putting on my walking shoes
She was crying out some genuine blues
Well I've lived a life, full of troubles and lovers and strife
I'm trying to understand what went wrong
While I'm standing here singing this songWhen will I?
When will I?

When will I?
When will I look back and laugh?
When will I?
When will I?
When will I look back at life,
When will I look back and laugh?
