Luck

Buffalo Clover

I canâ€™t get what, what the doctor takes.
Cheap wine and pills help to settle my shakes.
Oh if I could, I would sail to the moon and go to sleep.
Far from this tomb of dead and doom and misery.

Oh luck, you never knew me that well anyway,
Oh but when you came by, you never came by to stay.
Oh, oh well.

Iâ€™ve got a hole, in the wall of my town.
A cup of rain, and a highway sound.
Oh if it seems like I am losing my mind I just might.
All of my friends quit callin' and they donâ€™t stop by.

Oh luck, you never knew me that well anyway,
Oh but when you came by, you never came by to stay.
Oh luck.

I've burned the streets to every place that I passed.
Black flowers bloom in a garden of trash.
Oh itâ€™s a wicked wasteland when youâ€™re out there on your own.
But you know you canâ€™t feel the judgment when youâ€™re throwing all the stones.

Oh luck, you never knew me that well anyway,
Oh but when you came by, you never came by to stay.
Oh luck.
