

Jaded

Recondite

(spoken)

I think I need a band-aid

Don't know his name

But I met him in coquitlam

Dorian gray

Hanging out at micro play

He said he's tired

At the age of seventeen

Too uninspired

To ever change the world

Puking over toilet bowls all of us look the same

Chained to methylnedioxymethamphetamine(???)

[CHORUS]

It's all been done, but we're too young to be jaded

The war's been won, and its not that complicated

We are on our own, and we're just kicking back in oblivion

Will you meet me halfway?

Give up, you're fucked

They teach you that in c.a.p.p. class

So you've met someone

But how long is it gonna last?

He said he's tired

And he wishes he was sixteen

Too uninspired

Now isn't that convenient?

Puking over toilet bowls all of us look the same

Chained to phenobarbital and polyurethane

[CHORUS]

It's all been done, but we're too young to be jaded

The war's been won, and its not that complicated

We are on our own, and we're just kicking back in oblivion

Will you meet me halfway?

Do you feel like you've done wrong

Though there's nothing to regret.

You're much older than you seem, I always forget

I think both of us are tired,
We've talked for much too long
We're both younger than we seem

Lyrics powered by lyrics.tancode.com written by FREDERIKSEN, MARTI/TYLER, STEVEN Lyrics Â© EMI Music Publishing

Lyrics provided by
<https://damnyrics.com/>