

Pictures of Home

Deep Purple

Somebody's shouting up at a mountain
Only my own words return
Nobody's up there, it's a deception
When will I ever learn? I'm alone here
With emptiness, eagles and snow
Unfriendliness chilling my body
And whispering pictures of home Wandering blindly. How can they find me?
Maybe they don't even know
My body is shaking anticipating
The call of the black hooded crow I'm alone here
With emptiness, eagles and snow
Unfriendliness chilling my body
And taunting with pictures of home Here in this prison of my own making
Year after day I have grown
Into a hero, but there's no worship
Where have they hidden my throne? I'm alone here
With emptiness, eagles and snow
Unfriendliness chilling my body
And screaming out pictures of home
