The Missing Piece

Forgive Durden

What a splendid mess he's made of this
O the scientist and his Genesis
He overlooks my gift and benefit
She's the only one who knows what I could've done
I must be patient
They will realize what I know inside
I was meant to lead this world to greater things
It's my destiny
Everything seems to fade when I see her face
The sky and trees all blur every time I look at her
Nobody understood me till her eyes fixed upon me
My puzzle life's complete now that I found the missing piece
Don't you worry, boy, it's a waste of time
Place your hand in mine, untie your mind
We'll just float away until the day
You're not the only one who thinks they're falling in love
You must be patient
They will realize what I see inside
You were meant to lead this world to greater things
It's your destiny
Everything seems to fade when I see her face
The sky and trees all blur every time I look at her
Nobody understood me till her eyes fixed upon me
My puzzle life's complete now that I found the missing piece
Oh, you're the meaning
Nidria please listen, I'd like to explain
I should have told you sooner
It's been gnawing in my brain
My mind's in knots, it's got me lost
Please help me through the maze
'Cause you're the key, the lock's turning
The breaking of these chains
Everything seems to fade when I see his face
The sun and stars turn in every time I look at him
Nobody understood me till his eyes fixed upon me
My puzzle life's complete now that I found my missing piece
Everything seems to fade when I see her face
The sky and trees all blur every time I look at her
Nobody understood me till her eyes fixed upon me

My puzzle life's complete now that I found the missing piece
Ahrima, the most gifted serf
The utmost skilled of the cherubs
He felt his aptitude and slate were being misused
Shamed, he repined this to O, the scientist
Who replied with a calm face, expressionless
Dream with your eyes closed
Try and pluck the pearls from your bones
Dream with your eyes closed
Try and pluck the pearls from your bones
