Over the River

Jon Foreman

Hush, hush, hush, hush
Hush, hush, hush, hushI heard a sound come from the ground
All of the trees are abuzz
Talking in tongues, talking with lungs
Talking with freedomAll of the earth is soon to give birth
Look at the mountains alive
Birds and the bees, insects and me
All of us longing, longing for home, home
Home is somewhere I've never knownOver the river, over the river
I've set my hope
Over the river, over the river
I'll find my home in you, youDeath where is your sting, your signet ring?
Where is your power? why all this war?
Death to the score, nations are fading
Kingdom of light setting us right, finally humanGive me your tongue, you will be done
Inside I'm lonely, lonely for love, love
Love is something I've never knownOver the river, over the river
I'll find my home
Over the river, over the river
I'll find my hope in you, youHush, hush, hush
