

Nothing

Miggs

Got a tape loop running through my head
Got the same sad story in my bed
Got an answer for whatever you just said
And I'd rather be anywhere else instead
Of wondering why I never look a mirror in the eye
The things I'm really scared of, the truth or the lie
It's the same conversation where nothing ever changes
Nothing ever changes, nothing ever changes, nothing ever changes
It's time to figure this out
Time to figure it out
I'm left holding nothing
While you're walking away with me
And I'm left holding nothing
While you're walking away with me
There are lines I've drawn I wouldn't retrace
Some mistakes I've made I wouldn't replace
There are moments when I've stolen your grace
And maybe burning through a bit of hope and faith
But it's time to figure this out
Time to figure it out
I'm left holding nothing
While you're walking away with me
While you're walking away
And it gets complicated with the lights on
When you see too clearly the damage that you've done
And it gets complicated with the lights on
When you see yourself and the wreckage you've become
There's a tape loop running through my head
And the same sad story's in my bed
I'm an open book you haven't read
And I never even heard the last thing you said
But it's time to figure this out
Time to figure it out
I'm left holding nothing
While you're walking away with me
While you're walking away with me
Just for the record the weather today
Is pretty damn cloudy with a little burst of pain
