You got the first mile Made it through but you're falling apart Forget the distance that you've moved Since you were at the startI bet you would do much better Doing what you feel in your partsBecause you give and take And give all that you've got And it starts to break you down Until you have brokenI've got a bucket of water in case you catch on fire I'm at the pit stop waiting for you If you blowout or tire I've gotta tell you You fight like a bull and that I truly admireThat you give and take And give all that you've got And it starts to break you down Until you have broken downNo flag in sight yet but you've gotta keep moving If your wheels forsake you, it'll surely break you In time you'll be sold, you might feel cold But don't forget that it's the path you've chosen
