

I Believe (ft. Michael Franti and Nahko)

SOJA

I believe, I believe
I believe, I believe
No matter what you do
I believe, I believe
I believe, I believe
It will all come back to you Stand up and find your own way
Or sit down and wait for your turn
Follow you vision blindly
Or just become the vision of someone Remove the shackles right now
You never really fit into 'em at all
Or keeping running with that metal
On your feet until you fall Everything that you say
Become the things that you do
Remember what you put out there is building you
Remember everything is everything I believe, I believe
I believe, I believe
No matter what you do
I believe, I believe
I believe, I believe
It will all come back to you I kinda been struggling
The fire on my tongue's been challenging
But even the wise ones be stumbling
So pick your heart up here and walk tall Bright eyed deliverance
Everything you say's significant
So speak your truth, be spirited
You're beautiful and bold, so carry one Everything that you say
Become the things that you do
Remember what you put out there is building you
Remember everything is everything Everything is everything, every single day
Remember this in everything you do everything you say
In everything you eat and all the people that you meet
There is life, there is light, that's reflected back on me I believe, I believe
I believe, I believe
No matter what you do
I believe, I believe
I believe, I believe
It will all come back to you Turn your speakers down
And listen to the silence down below
That's the messenger

And that's the only one that really knows Turn my music down
'Cause it's your turn now
Well it's your turn now
Oh it's you turn right now Remember all that you say
It becomes all that you do
Everything that you put out there is building you up
Or it's breaking you down to the ground
Well it's your choice now
Yeah it's your voice now
It's that same sound Everything that you say
Become the things that you do
Remember what you put out there is building you
Remember everything is everything
