Come Home

Ryan Adams

You built this house
Built it stone by stone
Hammer in your hand
You built this homeAnd this house is strong
You raised it with your love
A shelter from the winds
From the cold and darkNobody has to cry
To make it seem real
And nobody has to hide
The way that they feelIf you'll stay right here
Tomorrow you'll be fine
I will be here for you
Standing by your sideSo come home, come homeYou built those walls
To hide your fears inside
We were younger then
It's safe now to come outsideWe built this home
On this little piece of land
The sky above is dark
No rain comes inNobody has to cry
To make it seem real
Nobody has to hide
The way that they feelIf you'll stay right here
Tomorrow you'll be fine
I will be here for you
Standing by your side
So come home, come homeAs the storm grows stronger deeper and wide
My face a winding river with no riverside
As the years grow longer I will be here by your side
Ashes to dust and storm by storm
Forever I will always be your loveNobody has to cry
To make it seem real
Nobody has to hide
The way that they feelIf you'll stay right here
Tomorrow you'll be fine
I will be here for you
Standing by your side
So come home, come home
