

Barbie Nation

Holychild

Maybe when my womb is broken open and I can Hold you with the joy of knowing there is no other
    Fear will slip away and I can know that finally Love is something I'll knowAlways had the tendency to believe
    Hiding from the truth could maybe set you free
        After you dance that Hollywood mingle,
Surrender yourself to the dream.I know you and me are not so much
    I know you and me can make it far
        But the bodies and lips moving
    Hips sway, hearts dropI know you and me are not so much
    I know you and me can make it far
        'Cause we're bred from Barbie Nation
        We know pure elation, yeah
        Suddenly within the little frame that I know
    You'll grow into every corner shamed by the shadow
        Sweetening the years when we grow together,
Drinking all that TV glow.I can never shade you no, you will see
    All the dark and lovely flow you will be
    Stronger 'cause you'll always know the woman's weight
    And happier than I'll ever be.I'd rather love you madly
        Than divulge truth this sadly
        We can continue facades
It's all fine and I know it's not for meDespite all honesty here
    Disputing kingdom failure
        Just make your body nicer
    Stand up taller, the world is watching you
        Here
        There
        Where?
        Where?
