

Pushing Daisies

Shannon Taylor

We called your name, but close your ears
Darling you aren't welcome here
Hear my voice, you've got no choice
But to listen to the words I say
We love to watch how you decay You bury me, bury me, bury me when I was alive
And you dug me up, dug me up once I had died inside
I'm six feet deep, six feet deep, six feet deep, lay me to rest
So far beneath the ground
Thank God we're pushing daisies now
You better bite your tongue, oh, but please do tell
Every detail of what gives you hell
You're right, you're wrong, I swear I knew it all along
Don't you dare make another sound
We love to watch you as you drown You bury me, bury me, bury me when I was alive
And you dug me up, dug me up once I had died inside
I'm six feet deep, six feet deep, six feet deep, lay me to rest
So far beneath the ground
Thank God we're pushing daisies now You push and you push, but things cannot stay the same
You dig and you dig, you just love to say my name You bury me, bury me, bury me when I was alive
You bury me, bury me, bury me when I was alive
And you dug me up, dug me up once I had died inside
I'm six feet deep, six feet deep, six feet deep, lay me to rest
So far beneath the ground
Thank God we're pushing daisies Far beneath the ground, thank God we're pushing daisies now
