Natural Man

Taj Mahal

Now you know I change with seasons, baby, and I roll with the incoming tide. Now you know well I change with the seasons, baby, you know and I roll with the incoming tide.Now you know I'm a natural man, baby.
Lord I do what I feel inside.Now don't you give me no tv dinner, baby.
Don't you give me none of that instant mess.
Now don't you give me that tv dinner, baby, none of that instant mess.Woman, now you know I want your good home food cooking, baby, 'cause that's what I love the best.I'ma ask Mother Nature, ask her what's on that poor boy's mind. I'ma have a talk with Mother Nature, baby. Have her ask what's on my mind.You know what she told me she said go out in the hills country, boy. Man, you know you will be doin' fine.I'm going to the country, baby.
Woman, do you wanna, do you wanna, do you wanna go?
Woah mama you know I'm going to the country, baby!
Do you wanna, do you wanna go?Now you know if somebody asks me, you know tell 'em Aunt Mabel told you so.You know of my Aunt Mabel! hahhWell, you know and I change with the seasons, baby!
Mama now you know and I roll with the incoming tide!
Now you know well I change with the seasons, baby!
Roll with the incoming tide.Well you know I'm a natural born man, baby.
Lord I do what I feel inside.Now this here's for my counsin Patsie, Lord, and my Auntie Mabel too! Now you know this is for my Aunt Mona, Lord knows, Grandma and Uncle, Lord too!Well you know I'm sitting out here in Los Angeles, y'all in the oak and I'm singing home to you! Wake up, folks!Lord and I change with the seasons, baby!
Roll with the incoming tide!
Lord you know I change with the seasons, baby!
Lord I roll with the incoming tide!Now you know your natural born lover now.
And I do what I feels inside.
