

Am I Losin'

Lynyrd Skynyrd

I recall when I used to come home never had a dime
But Lord I always had a good time
And I recall drinkin' wine with one of my friends
Lord, I can't go back again Am I losin' my own way back home
Am I losin' a good friend that I've known
Am I losin' won't You tell me how I've sinned
Why am I losin' one of my best friends And I recall this friend of mine I knew so well
It goes to show Lord You just can't tell
Now my friend won't talk to me let me tell You why
He thinks I've changed because of a dollar sign Am I losin' my own way back home
Am I losin' a good friend that I've known
Am I losin' won't You tell me how I've sinned
Why am I losin' one of my best friends It's so strange and it's so strange
When you get just a little money
It's so strange, your so called friends
Want to act just a little funny
Yes they'll blame you But I'm not the one that's here to blame
It's you my friend that's really changed
It's a shame, such a shame
Am I losin' once again Why these things happen, Lord I don't understand
But Lord it can sure hurt a man
And why won't my friend take me as I am
'Cause your friend Lord is the most important thing Am I losin' my own way back home
Am I losin' a good friend that I've known
Am I losin' won't You tell me how I've sinned
Why am I losin' one of my best friends Tell me people what good is that

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>