Am I Losin'

Lynyrd Skynyrd

I recall when I used to come home never had a dime
But Lord I always had a good time
And I recall drinkin' wine with one of my friends
Lord, I can't go back againAm I losin' my own way back home
Am I losin' a good friend that I've known
Am I losin' won't You tell me how I've sinned

Why am I losin' one of my bets friendsAnd I recall this friend of mine I knew so well

It goes to show Lord You just can't tell

Now my friend won't talk to me let me tell You why

He thinks I've changed because of a dollar signAm I losin' my own way back home

Am I losin' a good friend that I've known

Am I losin' won't You tell me how I've sinned Why am I losin' one of my bets friendsIt's so strange and it's so strange

> When you get just a little money It's so strange, your so called friends

Want to act just a little funny
Yes they'll blame youBut I'm not the one that's here to blame
It's you my friend that's really changed

It's a shame, such a shame

Am I losin' once againWhy these things happen, Lord I don't understand But Lord it can sure hurt a man

And why won't my friend take me as I am

'Cause your friend Lord is the most important thingAm I losin' my own way back home Am I losin' a good friend that I've known

Am I losin' won't You tell me how I've sinned Why am I losin' one of my bets friendsTell me people what good is that
