

Without You Here

Goo Goo Dolls

And your love's a gathered storm, I chased across the sky
A moment in your arms became the reason why
And you're still the only light that fills the emptiness
The only one I need until my dying breath
And I would give you everything
Just to feel your open arms
And I'm not sure I believe anything I feel
And now, now that you're near
There's nothing more without you
Without you here

And I'm trying to believe in things that I don't know
The turning of the world the color of your soul
That love could kill the pain truth is never vain
It turns strangers into lovers and enemies to brothers
Just say you understand, I never had this planned
And now, now that you're near
There's nothing more without you
Without you here
Without you here
There's nothing more without you
Without you here
There's nothing more without you
Without you here

My head lies to my heart and my heart it still believes
It seems the ones who love us are the ones that we deceive
But you're changing everything, you're changing everything in me
And now, now that you're near
There's nothing more without you
Without you here
