D2A

Bad Habit Bandits

Where were you for the past 8 years
I was preaching revolution you were making a career
Profiting off of the masses fears
As the soldiers fell you shed crocodile tears
Where have been for the past 8 years
I've been preaching revolution drinking too much beer
Singing in a voice that's loud and clear
The death of a America is drawing near

Cause they got in bed with the WTO
Got my job exported around the globe
Rigged the election so I don't have to vote
Then you bombed the towers and thought I'd never know
Said that marriage was between a girl and a guy
But straight divorce rate has never been so high
Partial birth abortion is now a crime
At least that F*gg*t Jerry Falwell died

Where were you for the past 8 years
I was preaching revolution you were making a career
Profiting off of the masses fears
As the soldiers fell you shed crocodile tears
Where have been for the past 8 years
I've been preaching revolution drinking too much beer
Singing in a voice that's loud and clear
The death of a America is drawing near

They said the terrorists were in Afghanistan
Then they were in Iraq now they are in Iran
It costs 40 bucks to fill my gascan
Everybody knows about your pipeline plan
Well the patriot acts censored every word
You never thought my fucking voice would be heard
Got carried on the winds of change around the world
Now I got the masses so you better be concerned

Where were you for the past 8 years
I was preaching revolution you were making a career
Profiting off of the masses fears
As the soldiers fell you shed crocodile tears

Where have been for the past 8 years
I've been preaching revolution drinking too much beer
Singing in a voice that's loud and clear
The death of a America is drawing near

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/