

Southern Bells

Langhorne Slim & The Law

It's been a while, since I've been alright
I try to smile but it just don't come off right
Underneath the stars
On a southern night
I went a little to far and I, crossed the line
I went a little to far and I, crossed the line
I see ghosts in the night and I hear voices in my head
I got into a fight, now the poor boy's dead
Underneath the stars
In a southern cell
I never knew how steep the cliff was until I fell
I never knew how steep the cliff was until I fell
And we all, fall, down
And we all, fall, down
No one said it would be easy
No one warned me that it'd be this strange
Now I beg for someone to relase me
Or something to help me settle my brain
It's been a while, since I've been alright
I try to smile but it just don't come off right
Sometimes I don't exist and that's the only thing I can tell
In the morning I wake to the sound of the southern bells
In the morning I wake to the sound of the southern bells
In the morning I wake to the sound of the southern bells
And we all, fall, down
And we all, fall, down
And we all, fall, down
And we all, fall, down
In the morning I wake to the sound of the southern bells (and we all, fall, down)
In the morning I wake to the sound of the southern bells (and we all, fall, down)
In the morning I wake to the sound of the southern bells (and we all, fall, down)
In the morning I wake to the sound of the southern bells (and we all, fall, down)
No one said it would be easy
No one warned me that it'd be this strange
Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>