

Pallbearer (feat. Iris DeMent & Marty Stuart)

Josh Turner

She left me in the darkness, all alone
She abandoned all the good times
And the love I thought we had
Im like a lonesome pallbearer, walking down the aisle
Traveling to the graveyard, counting down the miles
With every earth filled shovel
They dig that eternal bed
Im like a lonesome pallbearer
Carrying the dead
Carrying the dead
She dont call me, and she dont try to
And my praying cant bring her back
My eyes are wide open
Watching my future fade to black
Im like a lonesome pallbearer, walking down the aisle
Traveling to the graveyard, counting down the miles
With every earth filled shovel
They dig that eternal bed
Im like a lonesome pallbearer
Carrying the dead
Carrying the dead
Ive pondered trading places
With the man laying in that hearse
I tried to hold my head up
But her leaving, is like a curse
Im like a lonesome pallbearer, walking down the aisle
Traveling to the graveyard, counting down the miles
With every earth filled shovel
They dig that eternal bed
Im like a lonesome pallbearer
Carrying the dead
Carrying the dead
Carrying the dead

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>