

Without You

Holly Williams

Without you ~ Holly Williams / Lori McKenna I'm packing up to sing my songs all these towns blend into one

I'm somewhere in Madrid

I got here on crowded trains with old guitars and a famous name running like a kid, I'm running like a kid

I carry 'round this old backpack full of CDs and Kerouac living on the road

I left my heart on the coast of Wales with the boy I met at the last hotel

but I had to let him go

That's when I was searching, I'm not searching anymore

that's when I was learning about the things worth living for before I was open, before I knew I couldn't live a day

without you

I moved out west where the starlets play on the boulevards of west L.A.

And I tried to make a name but it never felt like home to me so I drove three days back to Tennessee in a slow and steady rain

That's when I was searching, I'm not searching anymore

that's when I was learning about the things worth living for

before I was open, before I knew I couldn't live a day

without you

Without you in the morning, to love me another day without you in the evening, when the colors start to fade without you on the plane ride to hold my hand and pray without you standing here when you could've walked away

Now I'm not searching, I'm not searching anymore but I'm, I'm still learning about the things worth living for

I am here, I am open, now I know I couldn't live a day

Without you Holly Williams piano, vocal

Jakob Dylan background vocal

Sam Ashworth - acoustic guitar, percussion

Jerry McPherson - electric guitar

Doug Lancia - electric guitar

Matt Slocum - cello

Mark Hill - bass

Charlie Peacock - keyboards, wurlitzer

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>