

Language Of Disloyalty

Mactatus

As flickering nightmare grazing a druid of pain and caught in between the greatness and the end driven by prosals from darkness and mist spoken by the language of disloyalty pulling to pieces the results wrath on one side the dominion of inferiority granting petty and disgrace on the other the empire of nothing sharing the illusion of the beholder to awake memories of erotic slaying the sexuality in scaring the years of monstrosity dimness from the eyes of immense agony bleeding the death the beginning of the end is the greatness in death shimmering nebula of blood lifted from sights spoken by language of disloyalty delighted of being alive and waiting to die
