

Three Years

Friday Mile

I'm never gonna give up your love. There's something about it and I just can't get enough
Wrote it on the back of my hand, tried to tell you, but I know you won't understand
 I'll never let you take back your love
You try and fight it but push always comes to shove
 Put it in the folds of my skin
Where you won't find it unless you let me in
 I've waited here for you
You don't even know what I'm going through
 For three years, new me, no you
 I'll never ever forget your love
When I wake up it's the first thing I'm thinking of Permanently etched in my mind
But don't you worry, it happens like this sometimes
