

Think

Mick Jagger

Think about the sacrifices that I made for you
Think about the hard times that you put me through
Think about the good things that I done for you
Think about the bad things that I tried not to do
Come on baby
Think about the good things
Think about the bad things
Think about the right things
Think about the wrong things
And baby before you leave me you'll realize
That I'm the one who loves you
How much of the happiness can you really claim?
How many tears have I shed, am I not to blame?
Though I can't remember what went wrong
I tried so hard to please you, least that's what I thought
Come on baby
Think about the good things
Think about the bad things
Think about the right things
Think about the wrong things
And baby before you leave me you'll realize
That I'm the one who loves you
Come on baby
Think about the good things

Think about the bad things
Think about the right things
Think about the wrong things
And baby before you leave me you'll realize
That I'm the one who loves you
Think about the sacrifices that I made for you
Think about the hard times that you put me through
Think about the good things that I done for you
Think about the bad things that I tried not to do
Come on baby
Think about the good things
Think about the bad things
Think about the right things
Think about the wrong things

Come on baby
Think about the good things
And baby before you leave me you'll realize
That I'm the one who loves you
And baby before you leave me you'll realize
That I'm the one who loves you
And baby before you leave me you'll realize
That I'm the one who loves you

Lyrics provided by
<https://damnllyrics.com/>