

English Rose

Journey South

No matter where I roam
I will return to my English rose
For no bonds can ever tempt me from her I've sailed the seven seas,
I've flown the whole blue sky.
But I've returned with haste, to where my love does lie. No matter where I go
I will come back to my English rose
No-one can ever keep me from her. I've searched the secret mists,
I've climbed the highest peaks
Caught the wild wind home to hear her soft voice speak No matter where I roam
I will come back to my English rose
For no bonds can ever tempt me from her. I've been to ancient worlds
I've scoured the whole universe
And caught the first train home
To be at her side. No matter where I go
I will return to my English rose
For no bonds, nothing, no one
Can ever keep me from her
