Bible Black

Heaven & Hell

At last alone, his fire's dying
Burned another day
Now to pretend and make up an ending somewhere far awayHe reached for a book all bound in leather something that he knows he's never read and the first page says beware you've found the answer the next one says I wish that you were dead!Don't go on, put it back You're reading from the Bible Black!What's this word I see Who are you and who are me Maybe I just stumbled in the darkI must have been out cold but the way the story's told They found me lying naked in the rain..yeahLet me go I've seen religion

But the light has left me blind

Take me back

I must have the Bible Black! Well here I go again

From the start to the end

I wish I could remember what I've doneNow here's another spell it could take me straight to hell and I feel I'm getting closer to my homeLet me go I've found addiction and it makes me feel alive

Take me back

I must have the Bible Black!(Great Guitar Solo)He locks himself away and tastes the silence Hungry for another bite of wrong and just the words "oh Lord please take me with you"

Took him to a place we don't belongLet him go!

He can't come back

He's reading from the Bible Black!So if your fire's dying, then what's the use of trying?

I may know another place that you can goIt's hiding in the pages

but you may not come back you're reading from the Bible Blaaaaack!!!
