

A Woman Knows

Kenny Chesney

She can't put her finger on a single lipstick stain
Perfume doesn't linger on a shirt on There's no matchbook in his pocket with a number and name
So why does she still hurt'Cause a woman knows, when there's another woman
She can feel her, all over her man
A woman knows, when there's another woman
You can't fool her, so don't try to think you can
What she don't know, won't hurt her
That's what he tells himself
So he hides his cheatin' heart inside his chest
He thinks he's put one over, but what he don't know is He's already confessed'Cause a woman knows, when there's another woman
She can feel her, all over her man
A woman knows, when there's another woman
You can't fool her, so don't try to think you can

Songwriters

SAMPSON, DONALD / CHESNEY, KENNETH / OVERSTREET, PAUL
Published by
Lyrics © Sony/ATV Music Publishing LLC, KOBALT MUSIC PUB AMERICA INC Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnyrics.com/>