

You'll Know Love

Kenny Rogers

The night will start to fall, you'll lie awake
Recalling every tender thing she said
You'll think about her laugh, her touch, her smile
Becomes a photograph you can't forget, not just yet
You're gonna know that night
When you reach out and she's not there
And there's more pain than your heart can bear
Love's just a river till you've crossed it
Suddenly everything in your life feels wrong
You're alive but the reason's gone
You'll know love when you've lost it
You'll know the taste of tears, you know you will
For years 'cause there's a truth you can't get past
Some bridges will not burn but some corners must
Be turned, so you can love again at last and not look back
Still until that that night
When you reach out and she's not there
And there's more pain than your heart can bear
Love's just a river till you've crossed it
Suddenly everything in your life feels wrong
You're alive but the reason's gone
You'll know love when you've lost it
It's so easy to recognize
You'll know love when you've lost it

Songwriters

REID/BEESON/PFRIMMERPublished by

Lyrics © Sony/ATV Music Publishing LLC, RESERVOIR MEDIA MANAGEMENT INC

Lyrics provided by
<https://damnlyrics.com/>