On the Floor

Brandon Flowers

When the lights go down in the city, getting real low
Settling in my room, I'm unnoticed
When the still comes in through my window letting me go
I feel the calm come over me on the floorOn the floor
Where the rats all come away clean there on the floor
Where the children all stomp and scream straight out the door
Well, I find myself on my knees begging pleaseWhen the lights go down in the city and everyone goes
To their room walking their trail to dreamland
When the lights go down in the city, something is roaring
I find myself waiting to believeOn the floor
Where the mice call shots in the corner that's where I'll be
When the crickets come home and sing their symphony
When I find myself on my knees begging pleaseOn the floor
Facing the things I've done here on the floor
Where the years have gathered and run that's where I'll be
And I find myself on my knees begging please
