Great Undying Love

Andreas Johnson

Watch her break through the silence
Drama fills up the air
And she looks like a goddess rising
A touch of gold in her hairOh, here it comes again
The one and great undying love
I lose my head again as her love shines on
How I wish that she could belong in my armsOh, here she comes like a sunset
To turn my blue into purple red
And she spreads like the stars at night
Her silver, over hearts unfedOh, here it comes again
The one and the great undying love
I lose my head again as her love shines on
How I wish that she could belong in my armsHere she comes to rescue me, rescue me, rescue me
She's all and everything, everything I need
She comes to bring me back
Take me home, set me freeHere it comes again
The one and great undying love
I lose my head again
The one and great undying loveHere it comes again
The one and great undying love
I lose my head again as her love shines on
How I wish that she could be strong in my arms, in my arms
