

A Change of Seasons

Overdrive Orchestra

Another summer night alone
Days grow short, the air grows colder
But it's hot as hell within the confines of this small town
Twenty-three never seemed so old
Wind is whistling through the trees that gave us shelter
Seasons change and so have I
A change of seasons brings a bittersweet reminder
Of friendships lost along the way
Colors fade, until I find my way back home
Cold wind blowing once again
Drifting forward, looking back
Dressed in black, the sun has set, we must move on now
Silence lingers through these halls
Snow is falling on the streets that gave us guidance
Lost until we find our way
A change of seasons brings a bittersweet reminder
Of friendships lost along the way
Colors fade, until I find my way back home
