Open Wide

Matthew

i want to touch you
i want to feel your skin i want to know what's there within and breathe it away and we could be so....and we could be so nice we could be so nice and to the fire, the leaves entice...don't blow them away you've got to tell me you wanted this to be sleeping eyes are open wide you say...you're the one to blame and we've been here too many times...but i want you still, the same i want to know you...the simple, salacious your undefiled and devious, insatiable ways so look into these so look into these eyes and never wonder if they'd lie or lead you away to fearful places sleeping eyes are open wide you say you're the one thats changed bring your mind down to the ground from your cloudy, starry place
i want to touch you
looking straight into your pain...and we've been here too many times but i want you still the same
