

Close Enough

Sean McConnell

Even if you were the air that I breathe
And even if you were the words that I speak
Even if you were the blood that I bleed
I could never be

Even if you could reach into my soul
Wrap your arms around it and never let go
Even if the two became one, all I know
Is I could never be

Close enough
And near enough
To the sound of your voice
The warmth of your skin
And the taste of your kiss
And I can't begin to be

Close enough
And near enough
'Cos the more that I get
The more that I want of your love
And I can't get close enough

Even if you're every thought in my mind
And even if you're every dream, every night
Even if you're every song that I write
I could never be

Close enough
And near enough
To the sound of your voice
The warmth of your skin
And the taste of your kiss
I can't begin to be

Close enough
And near enough
'Cos the more that I get
The more that I want of your love

And I can't get close enough

So stay with me forever
And let me be the only one who will ever be

Close enough
And near enough
To the sound of your voice
The warmth of your skin
And the taste of your kiss

Close enough
And near enough
'Cos the more that I get

Can't get close enough
