

Chains

Eric Benet

Break the chain
Tracy is a good girl, sweet sixteen
Her daddy's in her bedroom
Makes her feel unclean
She's slave to a secret
That her dad and she keep together
Nathan is a genius
Or at least he was
Nat traded future for a glass-pipe-buzz
Nat lives on the streets now
For $20 bills he'll do whatever
Don't stop breaking the chains
Don't stop breakin' away
Don't be afraid of breaking the chains
It's up to no one else
You've got to free yourself
Rosie is a waitress at the airport lounge
She gave up on her dreams
Her self esteem's broke down
Now she stares out the window
Watching people fly around forever
Don't stop breaking the chains
Don't stop breakin' away
Don't be afraid of breaking the chains
It's up to no one else
You've got to free yourself
Make a change, don't you be afraid, go on
Free your mind from the fear inside
And you won't be chained anymore
Look here, I'm a black man
And they say I'm free
Seems like somebody still got chains on me
Well, we got brothers killing brothers
Leaving young mothers to raise a family
We gotta stay together to make it better
Don't stop breaking the chains
Don't stop breakin' away
Don't be afraid of breaking the chains
It's up to no one else

You've got to free yourself

Lyrics provided by
<https://damnyrics.com/>