Everglades

Mason Jennings

On Chatham Bend
Two missing men
Came up with spades
From shallow graves
Belt buckles and rings
Worms and things
The killer he still
Watches from the reedsRunner, runner
Runner, runner
Ain't getting out alive
From the precinct boat
A narrow searchlight shown
Into the swampy depth
While I held my breath
Crocodile splash
Prehistoric past
I saw a shotgun flash
But never heard the blastNever heard the blastRunner, runner ooh
Runner, runner ooh
Ain't getting out aliveRunner, runner ooh
Runner, runner ooh
Ain't getting out alive
Through sun and shade
He makes his way
Through the lush parade
Of the everglades
Looking for, looking for
Open water
Looking for, looking for
A way out of hereRun away, no one can find you
Run away, no one can find you
Run away, no one can find you
Run away, no one can find you
Run away, no one can find youRun away, no one can find you nowThrough the water I sink
My brain can't think
Try to picture my wife
Before I lose my life
One day my son
Will pay you back for what you've done

To these innocent men
On Chatham BendRunner, runner
Runner, runner
Runner, runner ooh
Ain't getting out alive
