

I Miss October

cerulean

Out on a drive
Out on a Sunday
I'm watching you leave your sense of time behind
Would you, anyway?

I wanted to choose
You wanted the gray sky
And they'd slide by a fragile violence
Shiver of leaves and a mouthful of silence
Gone before we could feel like we did again

But it just might
Be safe and deny, I'm sorry it's over
But it just might
Be braver to say that I miss October

We lay in the light
We lay in the shadows
We stared at the gold ones
Like they'd never change or afraid they would

And everyday since
They're all repeated disasters
And they'd slide by uninspired
Flicker of fevers and doused out fires
Gone before we could feel like we did again

But it just might
Be safe and deny, I'm sorry it's over
But it just might
Be braver to say that I miss October

Learning to close my eyes and Remember there's something back there worth repeating Feels like I'm done deciding
To fall off the end of the world

But it just might
Be safe and deny, I'm sorry it's over
But it just might

Be braver to say that I miss October
