

Call Your Name

Rex Goudie

Life sometimes changes so quickly
Nothing's safe, nothing's sound
Just when I think I'm invincible
The world turns it all upside down
Thought you'd be here all my lifetime
Working each day 'til it's end
You were much more than just family
You were more like a friend
And with one simple phone call you were taken away
I'm misunderstanding what justice it pays
Are the powers above us playing some kind of game?
Now I'm left here to carry your name
And I know that you're out there
'Cause I feel you running through my veins
Why you're gone, that's a mystery
That's the reason I still call your name
Lived each day to the fullest
Pushed himself to the edge
Nerves of steel scared of nothing
Had a good laugh 'til the end
And I heard through a phone call you were taken away
Too young to have ever lived all of your days
When I heard of the reason I'd questions 'bout why
What you loved to do took your life
And I know you're still out there
There's a hole, we will never be the same
Why you're gone, that's a mystery
That's the reason I still call your name
Reason I still call your name
Reason I still call your name
And I know that you're out there
'Cause I feel you running through my veins
Why you're gone, that's a mystery
That's the reason I still call your name
'Cause I know you're still out there
There's a hole, we will never be the same
Why you're gone, that's a mystery
That's the reason I still call your name

Songwriters

THOMSON, DAVID / WELLS, ROBERT / GOUDIE, REX Published by

Lyrics © Sony/ATV Music Publishing LLC Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>