

Koran

Laibach

I believe in a better world
I believe in a better place
I believe in brotherhood, equality and freedom
I believe in happiness for all
When the light is leading out through the darkness of the night, there are questions I will follow
When the light is leading out, there are all these questions on my mind... Words are nice
Words are memories of pain
The future is invisible
Words are something that remain
Words are substance for tomorrow
They are weapons of our mind
Words can take us far away
They will leave us all behind... You believe in a better world
You believe in a better place
You believe in brotherhood, equality and freedom
You believe in happiness for all
When the light is leading out through the darkness of the night, there are questions we will follow
When the sun goes down again, and the moon is shining bright...
There are all these questions on our minds

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnyrics.com/>