Moonshine Road

Kix Brooks

Long-legged woman, velvet and lace
A country boy can't help but stare at your pretty face
I like your outlaw attitude
I like that long black car
And I might just be your ticket out
This ol' highbrow bar
I don't care who you areYeah, throw me the keys
Honey, take a seat
Let me show you how to drive that thing
Ridin' shotgun with a bootlegger's son
Sure to make a city girl scream
I'm gonna take you places money don't go
I'm gonna teach you what a country boy knows
Gonna cover you in diamonds and dust
Where the stars fall on moonshine road
Roll down that window, let down your fancy hair
You're a long way from New Orleans now
Nobody 'round here cares
Oh can't you smell that jasmine hanging in the air
That's the ghost of old plantations
That burned to hell out there
Yeah, girl we're almost thereYeah, hold on tight
Here comes the ride
This is where the blacktop ends
Gonna lose those lights, runnin' blind
You'll never be the same again
I'm gonna take you places money don't go
I'm gonna teach you what a country boy knows
I'll cover you in diamonds and dust
Where the stars fall on moonshine roadI'm gonna take you places money don't go
I'm gonna teach you what a country boy knows
Yeah, I'll cover you in diamonds and dust
Where the stars fall on moonshine roadLong-legged woman, velvet and lace
A country boy can't help but stare at your pretty face
At your pretty faceCome on, throw me them keys
Let me show you what that caddy'll do right now
Come on
