

Midnight

The Book of Knots

I worked at the mill
the same as my father and my brothers too my mother had worked there she'd hidden there, isn't it she left school? but today they look all like they'd to go look's like i've to keep this job

but tonight
I looked up, the stars're burning bright and under house,
a lot locked awes
of nevermore
with all that gilrls, with nothing left to show what once slept hard,
will come down
at midnight

people above's don't come up this ruin no more this town is like a stone we others take the sun for days and I'm here worjking on my own and I wish I could leave

but tonight
under the stars, we built, it's burning bright
a heavy hope,
that once was ours,
but nevermore
with all that girls, with nothing left to show
what once slept hard,
will come down
at midnight

but tonight
we'll pull it away
the stars'll be burning bright nothing more, but what's under this house will tell the story
with all the girls, with nothing left to show
what once slept hard,

will come down
tonight

ohhhhhhhhhh

Lyrics submitted by Bookofknots.

Lyrics provided by <https://damnlyrics.com/>