

Why You Had To Leave

Cascada

Our love couldn't have been any better
Each day I seemed to love you more
Nothing was going to break us apart
The truth couldn't have been any further
From what I thought was reality
Now I've been left with a broken heart
I don't know if it's right or wrong
Somehow I'm weak and strong
Find myself on the run but where do I belong?
It's hard to believe that one day you're here
The next you are gone, it's not that clear
For me to see why you had to leave
I just can't believe that one day you're here
The next you are gone, it's not that clear
For me to see why you had to leave
Rewind back to the time when you held me
The air is calm, the stars are bright
Nothing in this world can take you from me
Now stop, think of the pain that I'm feeling
I really want to feel your touch
But now I feel helpless, so helpless, baby
Since you went away
I feel that some days still conceal it from me
I'll be free and better off alone
It's hard to believe that one day you're here
The next you are gone, it's not that clear
For me to see why you had to leave
I just can't believe that one day you're here
The next you are gone, it's not that clear
For me to see why you had to leave
I could feel you all around me
Knew your loving words surround me
Still I can't believe why you had to leave
I was strong but now I'm broken
Many words been left unspoken
I just can't conceive why you had to leave
It's so hard to believe that one day you're here
The next you are gone, it's not that clear
For me to see why you had to leave

No, I just can't believe that one day you're here
And next you are gone, it's not that clear
For me to see why you had to leave
