

Tonight I Dance Alone

Sonata Arctica

Sometimes we find things we're not looking for and we lose the sense of reason Sometimes we lose what we are caring for and then face the day without them
My life, my home, my you Sometimes we fail to say how hurt we are
When the word we fear speaks treason
Don't wanna be there when my Cupid dies from a wound by his own arrow Here's to life, my home, my you
I raise a glass 'n drown my sorrow
When I'm on my own
I dry my eyes on a shoulder
But it's not my own
I cannot hold you, my tears are made of stone
I feel a tap on my shoulder, but... tonight I dance alone
