The Sharpest Crown

Joe Pug

There was a girl in my hometown
They say she wore the sharpest crown
Beautiful, its diamond top
Never took her picture cause she never learned to smileIt's not surprising
There's nothing excitingLate at night, you'll hear the sound
They say she wore the sharpest crown
She felt a darkness deep inside
She went and asked her mama why
She got no answer just because
Mama wasn't sleeping or pretending that she wasIt's not surprising
There's nothing excitingI hope that she'll turn around
They say she wore the sharpest crown
Woah, I loved her, don't ask how
Must've had some reasons that I can't remember now
Some folks say I let her downBut the same folks say she wore the sharpest
Dangerous and tore the darkness
Held her like a ten-ton harness
As I ran off for the farthest town
They say she wore the sharpest crown
