The Blues

Fielfraz

Sweet 17's got coloured eyes like a TV screen they both turn red when she's got the blues Sweet 17, once for all and for ever green now she has claimed what she might lose

She's the kind of girl that makes a man feel at home in a no mans land like children grab a stranger's hand and I got the blues - I got the blues
I got the blues - I got the blues - I got the blues

Sweet 17 performs her skin like a beauty queen
with looks that kill when she undress Sweet 17, fingernails like a guillotine why turn my back to her caress

She's so sublime like alabaster every wrong step would entirely crash her I like to catch her if she falls

and i got the blues - i got the blues

She left a few lines when she disappeard one for every wasted year and one for being still alive

I woke up one morning the walls were closing in on me she called from the clouds her shadow was all I could see

How happy can you be before you've fed?
How loaded must you be before you forget?

How much more can a man expect when a man has the right to choose?
If human hearts are made of ice where did you learn how to sing the blues?
