All Downhill From Here

New Found Glory

You're hiding something 'Cause it's burning through your eyes I try to get it out but all I hear from you are lies And I can tell you're going through the motions I figured you were acting out your part Once again we're playing up emotion Which one of us will burn until the end Catalyst you insist to pull me down You contradict the fact That you still want me around And it's all downhill from here And it's all downhill from here Your good intentions slowly turn to bitterness Re-occurring episodes with each and every kiss And I can tell you're going through the motions I figured you were acting out your part Once again we're playing up emotion Which one of us will burn until the end Catalyst you insist to pull me down You contradict the fact That you still want me around And it's all downhill from here And it's all downhill from here And I can't believe you pulled it off again Or notice till it all sets in You'll deny it till you're at your bitter end And I can tell you're going through the motions I figured you were acting out your part Once again we're playing up emotion Which one of us will burn until the end Catalyst you insist to pull me down You contradict the fact That you still want me around And it's all downhill from here And it's all downhill from here And you keep pulling me down Pulling me down, pulling me down (You contradict the fact) (That you still want me around)
