I Only Said

Japancakes

I only said those things so you couldn't put it back on me What's said is said but I never lied and the harder I try the harder it gets to remember the path that led me to this place There seems to be no way out of here I only wanted to protect myself from meaning and cause But you can only try to lift yourself out of the gutter so longYour form surrounds me I'm left alone
An empty spaceAt least it's my place and the end result is a world that never cared for the likes of different ideas
I had security
Now it's goneCan't take this pressure and I don't blame youth The blame's on you and it stands foreverOpen your tired eyes
It could make a difference
At least just try
By recreating the system

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/