

In Power We Entrust the Love Advocated

The Gathering

Sail on silver wings
Through this storm what fortune love may bring
Back to my arms again
The love of a former golden age I am disabled by fears
Concerning which course to take
For now that wheels are turning
I find my faith deserting me This night is filled with cries of Dispossessed children in search of paradise
A sign of unresolve
That envisioned, drives the pinwheel on-and-on I am disabled by fears
Concerning which course to take
When memory bears witness to
The innocence, consumed in dying rage
