

Deep Blues

Wishbone Ash

You come to me with that smile on your face
That same old look in your eyes
I notice that there's not a hair out of place
Your sweet mouth telling more lies You tell me it's different and you'll change this time
But the trouble is I've heard it before
You see it's always me in the firing line
I just can't take anymore You're no longer my desire
Your blues are way too deep
You kill the mood and you put out the fire
Your blues are way too deep You failed to read all the warning signs
Refused to see the red flags
And now I guess you've just run out of time
Blowing the last chance we had
You're no longer my concern
My heart is mine to keep
It seems to me you'll never learn
Your blues are way too deep You know you suck all the air from a room
Get your friends around to compensate
Too many times they've heard that same old tune
It's more than they appreciate For seven long years I gave you good advice
Thinking it would make a difference someday
I gave you the goods to make a better life
But you took them all and threw it away You're no longer my desire
Your blues are way too deep
You kill the mood and you put out the fire
Your blues are way too deep
You're no longer my concern
My heart is mine to keep
It seems to me you'll never learn
Your blues are way too deep

Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>